
Recent years have seen a growth in our African Studies programme as a whole, both by welcoming journals such as Journal of Eastern African studies, African and Black Diaspora and Safundi, and also the addition of our co-publishing agreement with University of South Africa Press (UNISA) and NISC in South Africa.

In this catalogue we have included details of all these journals, as well as an extended range of related titles encompassing subject areas from Ethnicity, the Commonwealth, Development, Human Rights, Literature and many more exciting themes.

We hope that you enjoy browsing the catalogue. We would be delighted to receive your feedback, general comments and suggestions for our list. Proposals for new journals are always welcome. Below are contacts in Journals Editorial and Marketing, as well as a Books contact should you have any questions on the respective lists.

New Partnership between the Canadian Association of African Studies and Routledge Journals

The Canadian Association of African Studies’ (CAAS) goal is to improve knowledge and awareness of Africa as well as the problems and aspirations of its people, to inform Canadian policy on and in Africa, and to generate public interest in the study and understanding of Africa in Canada.

Routledge Journals and the Canadian Association of African Studies are pleased to announce a new publishing partnership.

The Canadian Journal of African Studies is amongst the world’s most respected international scholarly periodicals on Africa. For more than 40 years, CJAS has published scholarly, multidisciplinary articles on anthropology, political economy, history, geography, and development. The journal represents a key vehicle for promoting the study of Africa in Canada and continues to provide the necessary scholarly infrastructure to support Canadian Africanist scholars working in and across disciplines. CJAS is unique because of its status as the only international journal in its fields which had consistently published in both English and French. This bilingual character not only reflects Canada’s linguistic realities but also affords the publication a comparative advantage in the study of a continent whose two most prominent official languages are English and French.
African and Black Diaspora
Editors: Fassil Demissie, DePaul University, USA and Sandra Jackson, DePaul University, USA
Volume 5, 2 issues per year
The first academic journal to directly address the needs of scholars working in the important field of African Diaspora studies. It advances the analytical and interrogative discourses that constitute this distinctive interdisciplinary study of the deterritorialized and transnational nature of the African and Black Diaspora.
