Critical Studies on Security
Editor: David Mutimer, York University, Canada

Security is one of the defining features of our, or any, time. Collectively we seek security, value security, desire security, while at the same time often being troubled by the actions that are taken in the name of our security. Critical Studies on Security is an international, peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the study of ‘security’ in and through social critique. The journal aims to publish theoretically informed scholarship, which engages with the practice and politics of security. We welcome articles from or across the range of disciplines, and from any of the critical social theoretical positions.

New Journal Launch in 2013
Peacebuilding
Editors: Oliver P. Richmond, University of Manchester, UK,
Roger Mac Ginty, University of Manchester, UK
Peacebuilding is an international, comparative, multidisciplinary journal open to articles on contemporary and historical cases. It will aim to provide in-depth analyses of the ideologies, philosophies, interests, and policies that underpin peacebuilding programmes and initiatives, and to connect with debates being held by policymakers, civil society personnel, scholars and students. It will be open to quantitative and qualitative methodologies, and will particularly welcome submissions that are prepared to challenge orthodox views and add new empirical insights into debates. It will be interested in contributions from the ‘subjects’ of peacebuilding, as well as theoretical and methodological innovations (for example critical and ethnographic work, whether on or in post-conflict societies, or on donors and international actors). One of the themes the editors are interested in is how the current peacebuilding paradigm produces political subjectivity, and how this is responded to by the recipients of peacebuilding operations. Rethinking approaches to peacebuilding is particularly crucial if this area of study is to move beyond its current. Peacebuilding will also periodically include reports on the work of major donors and the Peacebuilding Commission, or other notable organisations in the field.

The Chinese Army Today
Tradition and Transformation for the 21st Century
Dennis J. Blasko, Retired Military Intelligence Officer and Foreign Area Officer, US Army
Series: Asian Security Studies

The Chinese Army Today is a comprehensive study of the Chinese military, examining its ground forces in a level of detail not found in any other contemporary works. This new, revised edition has been fully updated to take account of recent changes in the institution.

In 1999, the military modernization program of the Chinese People’s Liberation Army increased in intensity and achieved a focus not seen in the previous two decades. Based primarily on actual Chinese sources, this book details these changes and puts them in the context of the many traditions that still remain. Written by a retired professional military officer who has served in China, the text uses first-hand observation of the Chinese military and three decades of military experience to weave many disparate threads from official Chinese statements, documents, and media reports into an integrated whole. The author also conducts an in-depth exploration into the many forces that constitute the People’s Liberation Army.

The Routledge Handbook of Terrorism Research
Edited by Alex P. Schmid, Terrorism Research Initiative, Vienna, Austria

“Alex Schmid has produced a book that is extraordinary in its scope and painstakingly comprehensive in its synthesis of knowledge and experience of terrorism research. His 1988 book Political Terrorism long occupied a cornerstone position as one of the few absolutely essential core texts for every terrorism researcher. The Routledge Handbook of Terrorism Research has surpassed even that. Whether you are a novice or an expert, this is simply a must-have source for every serious terrorism researcher.”
– John Horgan, Penn State University, USA

“A prodigious effort to bring together the collective wisdom of experts from around the world […] an invaluable resource to students, scholars and policy makers, this new volume should be the starting point of every serious student of the subject.”
– Louise Richardson, University of St. Andrews, UK
