African Security

Editor: James J. Hentz, Virginia Military Institute, USA

Co-Editor: Ian Taylor, University of St. Andrews, UK

Volume 4, 2011, 4 Issues per year

Print ISSN: 1939-2206, Online ISSN: 1939-2214

African Security is a new journal dedicated to the exploration of fresh approaches to understanding Africa's conflicts and security concerns. This journal investigates competing analytical approaches to understanding security while engaging in discussions of real world security issues in Africa. In particular, the journal seeks to investigate the myriad issues relating to conflict and security within and between African nations, not only from the more traditional approaches to security studies but also from more novel and innovative perspectives.

American Communist History

The Journal of the Historians of American Communism

Editor: Dan Leab, Seton Hall University, USA

Volume 10, 2011, 3 issues per year

Print ISSN: 1474-3892, Online ISSN: 1474-3906

American Communist History is a non-partisan, objective journal for scholarship about the history of the Communist Party in the United States and its social, political, economic and cultural impact on its members, on its opponents, and the public at large. The journal deals with the American party and with the various outside influences which have dealt with its representation, with the controversial folklore that has been engendered about it, and with the many differing views about its antecedents, and its diverse opponents on the Left and Right. While rooted in the United States, the journal welcomes contributions which are transnational or international in scope.

Ostermann, Cold War International History Project, Woodrow Wilson Center, USA; Svetozar Rajak, LSE, UK; Odd Arne Westad, LSE, UK and Natalia I. Yegorova, Institute of General History, Russian Academy of Sciences, Russia

Volume 11, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1468-2745, Online ISSN: 1743-7962

Cold War History aims to make available the results of recent research on the origins and development of the Cold War and its impact on nations, alliances and regions at various levels of statecraft, as well as in areas such as the military and intelligence, the economy, and social and intellectual developments. The new history of the Cold War is a fascinating example of how experts - often working across national and disciplinary boundaries - are able to use newly available information to refine, or in some cases destroy, old images and interpretations. Cold War History aims at publishing the best of this emerging scholarship, from a perspective that attempts to de-centre the era through paying special attention to the role of Europe and the Third World.

Conflict, Security & Development

Editor: Dylan Hendrickson, King's College London, UK

Managing Editor: Catherine Scott (née Carney), King's College London, UK

Volume: 11, 2011, 5 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1467-8802, Online ISSN: 1478-1174

Conflict, Security and Development provides an analytical and empirically informed treatment of the linkages between issues of security and development in contemporary international relations. It places emphasis on the need to examine issues of security and development in their mutual interaction rather than as separate areas of academic enquiry and policy-making.

Conflict, Security and Development presents the reader with fresh, objective and intellectually provocative research and also offers a forum for the cross-fertilisation of ideas and for reasoned and rigorous debate between the academic and policy communities in the North and South.

Contemporary British History

Listed in the Thomson Reuters Arts & Humanities Citation Index®

Editors: Nicholas Crowson, University of Birmingham, UK; Julian Greaves, University of Birmingham, UK; Matt Houlbrook, University of Liverpool, UK and Tony Shaw, University of Hertfordshire, UK

Volume 25, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1361-9462, Online ISSN: 1743-7997

Contemporary British History offers innovative new research on any aspect of British history - political, foreign, Commonwealth, social, cultural or economic - dealing with the period since the First World War. The editors welcome work which involves cross-disciplinary insights, as the journal seeks to reflect the work of all those interested in the recent past in Britain, whatever their subject specialism. Work which places contemporary Britain within a comparative (whether historical or international) context is also encouraged. In addition to articles, the journal regularly features interviews and profiles, archive reports, and a substantial review section.

Contemporary Politics

Editor: Ian Holliday, University of Hong Kong, China

Volume: 17, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1356-9775, Online ISSN: 1469-3631

Contemporary Politics provides a platform for studies of politics that are alert to the international without being international relations and conscious of national difference without ignoring international context. Such studies are often implicitly comparative, even if not explicitly so.

The scope of the journal ranges across international relations, comparative politics and national politics, and is not constrained by disciplinary boundaries in any domain. It takes an interest in major conceptual and theoretical issues generated by current world politics.

Contemporary Security Policy

Editors: Aaron Karp and Regina Karp, Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Virginia, USA

Volume: 32, 2011, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1352-3260, Online ISSN: 1743-8764

One of the oldest peer reviewed journals in international conflict and security, Contemporary Security Policy promotes theoretically-based research on policy problems of armed violence, peace building and conflict resolution. Since it first appeared in 1980, CSP has established its unique place as a meeting ground for research at the nexus of theory and policy.

Spanning the gap between academic and policy approaches, CSP offers policy analysts a place to pursue fundamental issues, and academic writers a venue for addressing policy.

Critical Discourse Studies

Editors: Norman Fairclough, Lancaster University, UK; Phil Graham, Queensland University of Technology, Australia; Jay Lemke, University of Michigan, USA and Ruth Wodak, Lancaster University, UK

Volume 8, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1740-5904 Online ISSN: 1740-5912

Critical Discourse Studies is an interdisciplinary journal for the social sciences. Its primary aim is to publish critical research that advances our understanding of how discourse figures in social processes, social structures, and social change. The journal recognises that the new and rapidly changing social relations of the current age call for new approaches to understanding the waves of change that continue to impact upon social, political, economic, and cultural formations. Therefore the editors strongly encourage the submission of papers that advance new approaches and new understandings that bridge disciplinary and cultural boundaries.

Critical Policy Studies

Editors: Steven Griggs, De Montfort University, UK and Frank Fischer, Rutgers New State University of New Jersey, USA

Volume 5, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1946-0171 Online ISSN: 1946-018X

Critical Policy Studies brings contemporary theoretical and methodological discussions, both normative and empirical, to bear on the understanding and analysis of public policy, at local, national and global levels. The journal offers a unique forum for researchers, policy-makers and practitioners to challenge established accounts of policy-analytic methods, to explore alternative approaches to policy-making, and to promote democratic governance. To this end, the journal concentrates on the relation of political and policy theory to specific practices of governance, in particular as they pertain to democratic governance, participatory practices, social justice and general public welfare.

Critical Review

Journal of the Critical Review Foundation Inc

2009 Impact Factor: 0.182
 Ranking: 60/68 (Social Sciences/Interdisciplinary)
 © 2010 Thomson Reuters, 2009 Journal Citation Reports®

Editor: Jeffrey Friedman, Institute for the Advancement of the Social Sciences, Boston University, USA

Volume 23, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 0891-3811, Online ISSN: 1933-8007

Founded in 1987 as a site where social-scientific theorizing confronts empirical realities, Critical Review publishes pathbreaking research and reflections on the effects of modern society – particularly its capitalist and democratic elements – on human well-being. Since 1997, the journal has treated complexity as the defining feature of modernity, and has focused on the effects of complexity on mass democracy. Critical Review is now the leading forum for considering whether voters and other political decision makers can make good choices in the face of pervasive ignorance about the social problems they are trying to solve.

Critique: Journal of Socialist Theory

Editor: Hillel Ticktin, University of Glasgow, UK

Volume: 39, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 0301-7605, Online ISSN: 1748-8605

Critique is an independent, refereed, scholarly journal founded in 1973. It attempts to analyse contemporary society from a critical Marxist perspective. Critique takes the view that Marxism has been so degraded by the Stalinist period that much of what has passed for Marxism has ranged between incoherent nonsense and empty if complex scholastic schema.

The aim of Critique is to take part in the restoration of the earlier pre-eminence of Marxist thought by encouraging discussion around the political economy of contemporary capitalist and non-capitalist societies. For this purpose, it regards debate around methodology and as a consequence philosophy to be essential.

Debate: Journal of Contemporary Central and Eastern Europe

Editor: Andrew Kilmister, Oxford Brookes University, UK

Volume 19, 2011, 3 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 0965-156X, Online ISSN: 1469-3712

Debate: Journal of Contemporary Central and Eastern Europe seeks to provide a radical critical analysis that is sympathetic to democratic, labour, feminist and ecologist movements from contemporary economic, social, cultural and political perspectives and developments in the region bounded by Germany in the west and Russia in the east. We are particularly interested in all writing on the social, cultural, and political life of Germany and Eastern Europe which connects the specific problems of the region with the wider issues of world order, globalization and inequality.

Democratization

Accepted for inclusion into the Thomson Reuters Social Science Citation Index®

Editors: Jeffrey Haynes, London Metropolitan University, UK and Gordon Crawford, University of Leeds, UK

Volume 18, 2011, 6 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1351-0347, Online ISSN: 1743-890X

Democratization aims to promote a better understanding of democratization – defined as the way democratic norms, institutions and practices evolve and are disseminated both within and across national and cultural boundaries. While the focus is on democratization viewed as a process, the journal also builds on the enduring interest in democracy itself and its analysis. The emphasis is contemporary and the approach comparative, with the publication of scholarly contributions about those areas where democratization is currently attracting considerable attention world-wide.

Dynamics of Asymmetric Conflict

Pathways toward terrorism and genocide

Editor: Clark McCauley, Bryn Mawr College, USA

Volume 4, 2011, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1746-7586, Online ISSN: 1746-7594

Dynamics of Asymmetric Conflict is a pioneering interdisciplinary journal that publishes original papers and reviews that contribute to understanding and ameliorating conflicts between states and non-state challengers. These conflicts too often lead to violence, sometimes to the extremes of terrorism or genocide. Understanding the trajectory to violence requires examination of conflicts that do not escalate to violence as well as those that do.

Environmental Politics is concerned with four particular aspects of the study of environmental politics, with a primary, though not exclusive, focus on the industrialised countries. First, it examines the evolution of environmental movements and parties. Second, it provides analysis of the making and implementation of public policy in the area of the environment at international, national and local levels. Third, it carries comment on ideas generated by the various environmental movements and organisations, and by individual theorists. Fourth, it aims to cover the international environmental issues which are of increasing salience.

Globalizations

Increasing to 5 Issues in 2011

Accepted for inclusion into the Thomson Reuters Social Science Citation Index®

Editor: Barry Gills, Newcastle University, UK

Volume 8, 2011, 5 issues per year

Print ISSN: 1474-7731, Online ISSN: 1474-774X

Globalizations publishes work which explores new meanings of globalization, brings fresh ideas to the concept, broadens its scope and contributes to shaping debates of the future.

The journal is dedicated to opening the widest possible space for discussion of alternatives to a narrow economic understanding of globalization. The move from the singular to the plural is deliberate and implies scepticism of the idea that there can ever be a single theory or interpretation of the term. Rather, the journal encourages the exploration and discussion of multiple interpretations and multiple processes that may constitute many possible globalizations, many possible alternatives.

Journal of Political Power

Official Journal of the IPSA Research Group on Political Power

New name for 2011! (Formerly Journal of Power)

Editor: Mark Haugaard, National University of Ireland, Galway, Ireland

Volume 4, 2011, 3 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1754-0291, Online ISSN: 1754-0305

Since Aristotle's classification of political systems, power has been one of the most central and debated themes of the social sciences. Yet, despite its centrality, there has been little consensus on what constitutes the essence of power. It is part of the raison d'être of the Journal of Political Power to capitalize on the consequent debates surrounding power. The Journal of Political Power is a primary outlet for those doing empirical work on relations of power and powerlessness. For instance, the journal welcomes empirical analysis of the process whereby globalization, ethnicity, nationalism, war and gender are central to the constitution of power, whether conceptualised as domination or empowerment.

Print ISSN: 0144-2872, Online ISSN: 1470-1006

The world of public policy has become an increasingly small one as a consequence of dramatic changes to global political and economic institutional structures and to nation states themselves. These changes at the structural level of the global system have impacted upon the work of public organizations either directly or indirectly and have broadened the field of action in policy studies. Policy Studies explores the implications of these changes for both the study and the practice of policy-making.

Volume 12, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 2156-7689, Online ISSN: 2156-7697

For over a decade this journal has provided a forum for the exploration of the politics of illiberal ideologies, both religious and secular. It publishes critical analyses of theory and international case studies pertaining to:

- The historic and ongoing interaction between religion and politics
- The impact of religious radicalism on public policy, political attitudes, and political decision-making
- The contemporary politics of religious revival in Europe, North America, the Middle East, and Asia.
- The historical and contemporary politics of secular 'totalising' movements, such as fascism, Nazism, Stalinism, Maoism, and Ba'athism.
- Class, Gender, and race in the context of totalitarianism and political religions.

Regional and Federal Studies

Editor: Charlie Jeffery, University of Edinburgh, UK

Volume 21, 2011, 5 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1359-7566, Online ISSN: 1743-9434

The upsurge of academic and political interest in regional and federal questions since the 1980s has been stimulated by the salience of regions in EU policy-making and the Structural Funds but also by regionalization and federalization processes in many Western states. The most striking example is the devolution occurring in the UK, but the process is at work all over Europe and in other parts of the world. These developments have led to many important research programmes and projects.

Southeast European and Black Sea Studies

The Official Journal of ELIAMEP – The Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy

Accepted for inclusion into the Thomson Reuters Social Science Citation Index®

Editors: Franz-Lothar Altmann, Stiftung Wissenschaft und Politik, Germany; Shireen Hunter, Washington DC, USA; Thanos Veremis, ELIAMEP, Greece, and Susan Woodward, The City University of New York, USA

Volume 11, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1468-3857, Online ISSN: 1743-9639

The aim of the journal is to establish a line of communication with these regions of Europe. Previously isolated from the European mainstream, the Balkan and Black Sea regions are in need of serious comparative study as are the individual countries, no longer 'at the edge' of Europe. The journal will take both an academic and also a more practical policy-oriented approach and hopes to compensate for the serious information deficit on the countries under consideration. It provides a unique opportunity to establish a new paradigm of analysis for the region and one that attempts to break away from the traditional ethnocentric approaches and develop a deeper and more fruitful understanding of the area.

The face of Europe has been transformed by the demise of the Soviet Union and the collapse of communist party rule in Eastern Europe. Within a series of countries, some of them erstwhile members of a Soviet bloc, others once part of the Soviet Union itself, a deep process of adjustment is under way.

The Journal of Communist Studies and Transition Politics devotes particular attention to this truly epochal process of regime change, including in its material contributions from within the affected societies. At the same time, it follows the effects of this upheaval on communist parties, ruling and non-ruling, both in Europe and in the wider world.

Editor: Shahid Qadir, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Volume 32, 2011, 8 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0143-6597, Online ISSN: 1360-2241

Third World Quarterly (TWQ) is the leading journal of scholarship and policy in the field of international studies. For three decades it has set the agenda on development discourses of the global debate. As the most influential academic journal covering the emerging worlds, TWQ is at the forefront of analysis and commentary on fundamental issues of global concern. TWQ examines all the issues that affect the many Third Worlds and is not averse to publishing provocative and exploratory articles, especially if they have the merit of opening up emerging areas of research that have not been given sufficient attention.

Turkish Studies

A publication of The Global Research into International Affairs Center

Editor: Barry Rubin, Global Research in International Affairs Center, Israel

Volume 12, 2011, 4 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1468-3849, Online ISSN: 1743-9663

Turkey is a country whose importance is rapidly growing in international affairs. A rapidly developing democratic state with a strong economy, complex society, active party system, and powerful armed forces, Turkey is playing an increasingly critical role in Europe, the Middle East, and the Caucasus. Given Turkey's significance and the great interest in studying its history, politics, and foreign policy, Turkish Studies presents a forum for scholarly discussion on these topics and more.

History: Reviews of New Books

Editors: Brett A. Berliner, Morgan State University, USA; Michael H. Creswell, Florida State University, USA; Russell R. Menard, University of Minnesota, USA and Mary Lindemann, University of Miami (Florida), USA

Volume 39, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0361-2759
Online ISSN: 1930-8280

History: Reviews of New Books lets readers know what's new in current scholarship on historical topics. Approximately thirty to forty book reviews per quarterly issue cover all geographic areas and time periods, from ancient times to the present. The reviews are concise, authoritative, and timely. They outline and evaluate the author's arguments, describe the sources used in the research, and place the book in the context of other scholarship. History is invaluable for professors planning course syllabi, for graduate students interested in cutting-edge work, and for libraries making regular acquisitions.

Perspectives on Political Science

Editor: Peter Augustine Lawler, Berry College, USA

Volume 40, 2011, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1045-7097
Online ISSN: 1930-5478

Whether discussing Montaigne's case for tolerance or Nietzsche's political critique of modern science, Perspectives on Political Science links contemporary politics and culture to the enduring questions posed by great thinkers from antiquity to the present. Ideas are the lifeblood of the journal, which comprises articles, symposia, and book reviews. Recent articles address the writings of Aristotle, Adam Smith, and Plutarch; the movies No Country for Old Men and 3:10 to Yuma; and the role of humility in modern political thought. The authoritative source for reviews of new books on government, politics, international affairs, public policy, and political theory, this journal guides scholars, educators, policy planners, and others who require broad but up-to-date knowledge of the literature published within the last twelve months. General readers as well as specialists will find Perspectives on Political Science stimulating reading.

Adelphi series
 (Formerly Adelphi Papers) An IISS (International Institute for Strategic Studies) publication

Editor: Nicholas Redman, IISS, London, UK

Volume: 51, 2011, 8 issues per year
 Print ISSN: 1944-5571, Online ISSN: 1944-558X

The Adelphi series is the Institute's principal contribution to policy-relevant, original academic research. The series is designed to provide rigorous analysis of strategic and defence topics that will prove useful to academics, researchers, politicians and diplomats, as well as foreign-affairs analysts, defence commentators and journalists.

From the very first paper, Alastair Buchan's 'Evolution of NATO' (1961), through Kenneth Waltz's classic 'The Spread of Nuclear Weapons: More May Be Better' (1981), to influential additions to the series such as Mats Berdal's 'Disarmament and Demobilisation after Civil Wars' (1996) and Lawrence Freedman's 'The Revolution in Strategic Affairs' (1998), the Adelphi series has provided detailed, nuanced analysis of key security issues, serving to inform opinion, stimulate debate and challenge conventional thinking. The series includes both thematic studies and papers on specific national and regional security problems.
