Distinktion

Scandinavian Journal of Social Theory

NEW TO ROUTLEDGE IN 2011

Editor-in-Chief: Christian Borch, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark

Volume 12, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1600-910X, Online ISSN: 2159-9149

Distinktion: Scandinavian Journal of Social Theory is a peer-reviewed journal that publishes papers which make a substantial contribution to contemporary social theory. The journal particularly investigates the interface between social and political theory, often explored in thematic issues. Distinktion invites articles from sociology, political science, cultural and legal studies, anthropology, and philosophy that provide original perspectives on the social. Launched in 2000 and based in a Scandinavian context, Distinktion creates a space for theoretical contestation that includes both continental and Anglo-American traditions. The journal features theory articles as well as more empirical contributions, but empirical papers should outline implications for social theory. Distinktion publishes standard articles as well as review essays.

European Societies

The official journal of the European Sociological Association

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editor: Göran Therborn, Cambridge University, UK
Volume 13, 5 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1461-6696, Online ISSN: 1469-8307

Developed by the European Sociological Association as an international platform for the sociological discourse on European developments, European Societies (ES) publishes research on Europe rather than research by Europeans. The journal covers social theory and analysis on three levels: the European level itself, comparative research on Europe, and Europe in international perspective. Concentrating on the present, ES articles examine themes reflecting recent and significant changes in Europe from a cross-disciplinary view point. The journal is essential reading for all sociologists, economists, political scientists and social policy analysts wishing to keep abreast of the very latest debates.

Innovation

The European Journal of Social Science Research

Published in association with the Interdisciplinary Centre for Comparative Research in the Social Sciences and ICCR Foundation

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editors: Ronald J. Pohoryles, The Interdisciplinary Centre for Comparative Research in Social Sciences, Vienna, Austria

Volume 24, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1351-1610, Online ISSN: 1469-8412

European integration and enlargement pose fundamental challenges for policy, politics, citizenship, culture and democracy. Innovation: The European Journal of Social Science Research provides a unique forum for discussing these processes. It welcomes articles on all aspects of European developments that contribute to the improvement of social science knowledge and to the setting of a policy-focused European research agenda.

International Journal of Social Research Methodology

Published in association with the Social Research Association

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Increase to 6 issues per year

Co-Editors: Julia Brannen, University of London, UK and Rosalind Edwards, University of Southampton, UK

Volume 14, 6 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1364-5579, Online ISSN: 1464-5300
A key feature of this journal is the mix of academic and theoretically-slanted methodological articles, articles relating to research practice in professional and service settings, and those considering the relationship between the two. It thus addresses an audience of researchers within academic and other research organizations as well as practitioner-researchers in the field.

The journal provides: a focus for on-going and emerging methodological debates across a range of approaches, both qualitative and quantitative, and including mixed and comparative methods, as these relate to philosophical, theoretical, ethical, political and practical issues; an international medium for the publication of discussions of social research methodology and practices across a wide range of social science disciplines and substantive interests; and a forum for researchers based in all sectors to consider and evaluate methods as these relate to research practice.

International Review of Sociology/Revue Internationale de Sociologie

Editor: Marisa Ferrari Occhionero, University of Rome, Italy

Volume 21, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0390-6701, Online ISSN: 1469-9273

International Review of Sociology is the oldest journal in the field of sociology, founded in 1893 by René Worms. Now the property of Rome University, its direction has been entrusted to the Faculty of Statistics.

This choice is a deliberate one and falls into line with the traditional orientation of the journal as well as of the Institut International de Sociologie. The latter was the world's first international academic organisation of sociology which started as an association of contributors to International Review of Sociology.

Entrusting the journal to the Faculty of Statistics reinforces the view that sociology is not conceived apart from economics, history, demography, anthropology and social psychology. Rather, sociology is a science which aims to discover the links between the various areas of social activity and not just a set of empty formulas. Thus, International Review of Sociology provides a medium through which up-to-date results of interdisciplinary research can be spread across disciplines as well as across continents and cultures.

The Journal of Mathematical Sociology

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editor: Phillip Bonacich, University of California at Los Angeles, USA

Volume 35, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0022-250X, Online ISSN: 1545-5874

The Journal of Mathematical Sociology welcomes papers of mutual interest to social scientists and other social and behavioral scientists, as well as papers by non-social scientists that may encourage fruitful connections between sociology and other disciplines. Reviews of new or developing areas of mathematics and mathematical modeling that may have significant applications in sociology are also considered.

South African Review of Sociology

Co-published with UNISA Press

Editorial Collective: Shireen Ally, University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa, Marcelle Dawson, University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Bridget Kenny, University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa and Luke Sinwell, University of Johannesburg, South Africa

Volume 42, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 2152-8586, Online ISSN: 2072-1978

The South African Review of Sociology publishes leading scholarship relevant to the South African sociological community and beyond, including original research articles, review papers, briefings and debates. Relevance is not defined in a narrow way, and contributions on subjects of comparative or theoretical interest are welcomed. Moreover, the journal does not define 'sociological' in a restrictive way, but as the study of society in the broadest sense.

Children & Families

Children's Geographies

Advancing interdisciplinary understanding of younger people's lives

Editor: Hugh Matthews, University of Northampton, UK

Volume 9, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1473-3285, Online ISSN: 1473-3277

Children's Geographies is a peer-reviewed journal that provides an international forum to discuss issues that impact upon the geographical worlds of children and young people under the age of 25 and of their families. The journal aims to be accessible to new researchers, including postgraduate students and academics at an early stage of their research careers, and to practitioners with an interest in children, youth and families. Study of the geographies of this kind, whilst emphasising the importance of place, space and spatiality, inevitably cuts across inter- and intra-disciplinary boundaries. The journal provides a forum for academics and practitioners with an interest in these multifaceted geographies, enabling new insights into the diverse and multiple realities of young people's lives.

Family Science

Official journal of the European Society on Family Relations

Editor: Judith Semon Dubas, Utrecht University, The Netherlands

Volume 2, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1942-4620, Online ISSN: 1942-4639

The journal's vision is to become the leading international outlet for reporting research on the family. It will facilitate a greater understanding of the diversity of the family in all its forms and contribute to the knowledge base that informs intervention programs and social policies at national and international levels.

Family Science will be the official journal of the European Society on Family Relations, and will promote the development of Family Science within Europe and around the globe. Given the multiplicity of factors that impact on the family, the journal will publish original research, theoretical, methodological and review papers that address issues pertinent to the family, and reflect a diverse array of methodologies.

Journal of Youth Studies

Increase to 8 issues per year

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editor-in-Chief: Andy Furlong, University of Glasgow, UK

Volume 14, 8 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1367-6261, Online ISSN: 1469-9680

Journal of Youth Studies is an international scholarly journal devoted to a theoretical and empirical understanding of young people's experiences and life contexts. Over the last decade, changing socio-economic circumstances have had important implications for young people: new opportunities have been created, but the risks of marginalisation and exclusion have also become significant. This is the background against which Journal of Youth Studies has been launched, with the aim of becoming the key multidisciplinary journal for academics with interests relating to youth and adolescence.

Social Identities

Journal for the Study of Race, Nation and Culture

Editors: Pal Ahluwalia, University of California, San Diego, USA and University of South Australia and Toby Miller, University of California, Riverside, USA

Volume 17, 6 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1350-4630, Online ISSN: 1363-0296

Recent years have witnessed considerable worldwide changes concerning social identities such as race, nation and ethnicity, as well as the emergence of new forms of racism and nationalism as discriminatory exclusions. Social Identities aims to furnish an interdisciplinary and international focal point for theorizing issues at the interface of social identities. The journal is especially concerned to address these issues in the context of the transforming political economies and cultures of postmodern and postcolonial conditions. Social Identities is intended as a forum for contesting ideas and debates concerning the formations of, and transformations in, socially significant identities, their attendant forms of material exclusion and power, as well as the political and cultural possibilities opened up by these identifications.

Sex Education

Sexuality, Society and Learning

Editor: Michael Reiss, University of London, UK

Volume 11, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1468-1811, Online ISSN: 1472-0825

Sex Education is an international refereed journal concerned both with the practice of sex education and with the thinking that underpins it.

Sex Education does not assume that sex education takes place only in educational institutions and the family. Contributions are therefore welcomed which, for example, analyse the impacts of media and other vehicles of culture on sexual behaviour and attitudes. Medical and epidemiological papers (e.g. of trends in the incidences of sexually transmitted infections) will not be accepted unless their educational implications are discussed adequately.

Consumption Markets and Culture

Editor-in-Chief: Jonathan Schroeder, Rochester Institute of Technology, USA

Volume 14, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1025-3866, Online ISSN: 1477-223X

Consumption, Markets and Culture, focuses on consumerism and the markets as the site of social behaviour and discourse. It encourages discussion of the role of management and organisations in society, especially in terms of production, consumption, colonialism, globalisation, business performance and labour conditions. Combining theories of culture, media, gender, anthropology, literary criticism and semiology with analyses of business and management, the journal is international in its scope and iconoclastic in its aims.

The editors consider marketing to be the ultimate social practice of postmodernity, blending art and commerce and requiring the constant renewal of styles, forms and images. Educating readers about the conscious and planned practice of signification and representation is, thus, the journal's primary aim; its second is to take part in inquiring in and construction of the material conditions and meanings of consumption and production.

Volume 8, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1740-5904 Online ISSN: 1740-5912

Critical Discourse Studies is an interdisciplinary journal for the social sciences. Its primary aim is to publish critical research that advances our understanding of how discourse figures in social processes, social structures, and social change. Critical Discourse Studies encourages contributions from both new and established scholars. The journal recognises that the new and rapidly changing social relations of the current age call for new approaches to understanding the waves of change that continue to impact upon social, political, economic, and cultural formations. Therefore the editors strongly encourage the submission of papers that advance new approaches and new understandings that bridge disciplinary and cultural boundaries.

Globalizations

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editor: Barry Gills, Newcastle University, UK

Volume 8, 5 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1474-7731, Online ISSN: 1474-774X

Globalizations publishes work which explores new meanings of globalization, brings fresh ideas to the concept, broadens its scope and contributes to shaping debates of the future. The journal is dedicated to opening the widest possible space for discussion of alternatives to a narrow economic understanding of globalization. The move from the singular to the plural is deliberate and implies scepticism of the idea that there can ever be a single theory or interpretation of the term. Rather, the journal encourages the exploration and discussion of multiple interpretations and multiple processes that may constitute many possible globalizations, many possible alternatives.

Journal of Contemporary Religion

Editors: Elisabeth Arweck, University of Warwick, UK and Peter B. Clarke, University of Oxford, UK

Volume 26, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1353-7903, Online ISSN: 1469-9419

Journal of Contemporary Religion is an international peer reviewed journal. Its purpose is to both document and evaluate the anthropological, sociological, psychological, and philosophical aspects of emerging manifestations of religiosity in any part of the world—whether within innovative movements or mainstream institutions. The term 'religion' in the title of this journal is understood to include contributions on spirituality. Moreover, as the journal title suggests, the focus is on contemporary issues.

Journal of Cultural Economy

Closely associated with the CRESC project

Editors: Tony Bennett, University of Western Sydney, Australia, Liz McFall, The Open University, UK and Michael Pryke, The Open University, UK

Volume 4, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1753-0350, Online ISSN: 1753-0369

Journal of Cultural Economy is part of the Culture, Economy and the Social publishing programme of the ESRC Centre for Research on Socio-Cultural Change (CRESC). Its concern is with the role played by various forms of material cultural practice in the organisation of the economy and the social, and of the relations between them. As such it will provide a unique interdisciplinary forum for work on these questions from across the social sciences and humanities. These include the contributions of actor network theory and science studies to debates about the 'performativity' of the economy and the social and the parallel discussions about the distributive nature of economic and social agency across networks of things and persons that is evident in social anthropology, and material culture studies.

Journal of Political Power

New Name for 2011

Official journal of the IPSA Research Group on Political Power

Editor: Mark Haugaard, National University of Ireland, Ireland

Volume 4, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1754-0291, Online ISSN: 1754-0305

Since Aristotle's classification of political systems, power has been one of the most central and debated themes of the social sciences. Yet, despite its centrality, there has been little consensus on what constitutes the essence of power. It is part of the raison d'être of the Journal of Political Power to capitalize on the consequent debates surrounding power.

Mobilities

Included in the Thomson Reuters Social Sciences Citation Index®

Editors: Kevin Hannam, University of Sunderland, UK, Mimi Sheller, Drexel University, USA and John Urry, Lancaster University, UK

Volume 6, 4 issues per year
Print ISSN: 1745-0101, Online ISSN: 1745-011X

Mobilities is a forum for research into the many different kinds of mobility and the 'new mobilities' paradigm in the social sciences. Mobilities encompasses both the large-scale movements of people, objects, capital, and information across the world, as well as more local processes of daily transportation and movement through public space within everyday life.

As such, Mobilities is centrally involved in many of the crucial concerns of sociology; patterns of travel, tourism and migration; the production and transformation of the family, community, public and private space; and of understandings of the human body and the home. Mobilities particularly welcomes papers that examine the interconnectedness of mobility systems as highlighted by examples such as airports, organised crime and the effects of natural disasters.

Policy Studies

Editor: Mark Evans, ANZSOG Institute for Governance, Australia

Volume 32, 6 issues per year
Print ISSN: 0144-2872, Online ISSN: 1470-1006

The world of public policy has become an increasingly small one as a consequence of dramatic changes to global political and economic institutional structures and to nation states themselves. These changes at the structural level of the global system have impacted upon the work of public organizations either directly or indirectly and have broadened the field of action in policy studies. Policy Studies explores the implications of these changes for both the study and the practice of policy-making.

Psychology & Sexuality

Advancing Research and Global Perspectives on Sexualities

Editors: Meg Barker and Darren Langdrige, both at Open University, UK

Volume 2, 3 issues per year
Print ISSN 1941-9899, Online ISSN 1941-9902

Psychology & Sexuality is an important new international journal, publishing high-quality quantitative and qualitative psychological research on sexualities. Psychology & Sexuality aims to advance knowledge and understanding of lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans, heterosexual and queer issues in psychology and allied disciplines. The journal will be progressive and radical with regard to current debates in critical psychology, while also drawing from work traditionally seen as outside the remit of psychology to inform debate.

The contents will be predominantly empirical and theoretical papers from both qualitative and quantitative methodologies, but review articles and essays are welcome, along with book reviews.
