Taylor & Francis is dedicated to the dissemination of scholarly information, utilising skills and expertise honed since we first began publishing learned journals in 1798. Today, we publish more than 1,600 scholarly journals in association with 460 societies and institutions. Our publishing team is truly international. With a network of 20 global offices – including Philadelphia, Oxford, Melbourne, Beijing, New Delhi, Stockholm, Johannesburg and Singapore – we can provide local support around the globe.

Our programme is built on strong foundations: we helped establish many excellent journals in the nineteenth century, including those of the Linnean Society of London and the Geological Society of London. In the twentieth century, we played a major role in the internationalisation of research, whilst publishing groundbreaking work across a wide range of disciplines.

Our environmental science and policy journals portfolio continues to be edited by many of the world’s leading academics in the field, and we enjoy strong partnerships with a great number of learned societies on whose behalf we publish.

Environmental Claims Journal

New to Taylor & Francis for 2012

2010 Impact Factor: 0.752*
Five-Year Impact Factor: 0.754*

Editor-in-Chief: Howard M. Tollin, AON Risk Services, USA
Volume 24, 2012, 4 issues per year

The Environmental Claims Journal (ECJ) focuses on the many types of claims and liabilities that result from environmental exposures. The ECJ considers environmental claims under older business insurance policies, coverage and claims under more recent environmental insurance policies, as well as toxic tort claims. Exposures and claims from all environmental media are considered: air, drinking water, groundwater, soil, chemicals in commerce and naturally occurring chemicals.

International Journal of Biodiversity Science, Ecosystem Services & Management
Formerly the International Journal of Biodiversity Science & Management

Editor-in-Chief: Rudolf de Groot, Wageningen University, The Netherlands
Volume 8, 2012, 4 issues per year

International Journal of Biodiversity Science, Ecosystem Services & Management focuses on the interaction between biodiversity at all levels (ecosystems, species, genes). Papers published in the Journal should address at least one of the following themes:
• the link between biodiversity and ecosystem services
• the link between ecosystem services and management
• the link between biodiversity and management

International Journal of Environmental Health Research
Published in association with the International Federation of Environmental Health

Editor-in-Chief: Chris Miller, University of Salford, UK
Volume 22, 2012, 6 issues per year

International Journal of Environmental Health Research (IJEHR) is devoted to rapid publication of research in environmental health, acting as a link between the diverse research communities and practitioners in environmental health. IJEHR publishes articles on all aspects of the interaction of the environment with human health. This interaction can broadly be divided into three areas; the natural environment and health, the built environment and health and communicable diseases.

www.tandfonline.com/ijehr

International Journal of Environmental Studies

Editor: M. R. Brett-Crowther, France
Volume 69, 2012, 6 issues per year

For more than 30 years, the journal has been pre-eminent in its field. The environment is understood to comprise the natural and the man-made, and their interactions; including such matters as pollution, health effects, analytical methods, political approaches, social impacts, etc. Papers favouring an interdisciplinary approach are preferred, because the evidence of 30 years appears to be that many intellectual tools and many causes and effects are at issue in any environmental problem – and its solution.

International Journal of Urban Sustainable Development

Managing Editors: Ramin Keivani, OISD, Oxford Brookes University, UK and Jingzhu Zhao, Chinese Institute of Urban Environment, China

Volume 4, 2012, 2 issues per year

International Journal of Urban Sustainable Development provides a forum for cutting edge research and rigorous debate for in-depth and holistic understanding of the complex inter-related environmental, social, economic, political, spatial, institutional and physical challenges facing urban areas. Its premise is that multi-disciplinary approaches provide the space for the range of disciplines and perspectives related to the full breadth of issues that affect urban sustainable development.

www.tandfonline.com/tjue

International Journal of Sustainable Development & World Ecology

Editor-in-Chief: Jingzhu Zhao, Chinese Academy of Sciences, China

Volume 19, 2012, 6 issues per year

Sustainable development should ‘meet the needs of the present generation without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs’. This is the primary focus of the journal, and is addressed by papers in environmental sustainability, economic sustainability, and/or social and cultural sustainability.

Journal of Environmental Engineering and Landscape Management

Co-published with Vilnius Gediminas Technical University

Volume 20, 2012, 4 issues per year

Journal of Environmental Engineering and Landscape Management is an international medium for the publication of original research on the environment with emphasis on changes caused by human activities. The scope is multidisciplinary and international.

www.tandfonline.com/teel
Managing Editor: Neil Powe, University of Newcastle, UK
Volume 55, 2012, 10 issues per year

Journal of Environmental Planning and Management is a leading forum for up-to-date scholarly but accessible papers on all aspects of environmental planning and management. With contributions from leading international authors, the journal publishes influential, high-quality papers – an essential feature whether you are a subscriber, reader, contributor or all three. The central aim is to focus on the integrated planning and management of the environment.

www.tandfonline.com/cjep

Editors: Richard Cowell, Cardiff University, UK and Andrew Flynn, Cardiff University, UK
Volume 14, 2012, 4 issues per year

The Journal of Environmental Policy & Planning is an international journal that provides a forum for the critical analysis of environmental policy and planning. It explores the environmental dimensions of common policies such as transport, agriculture and fisheries, urban and rural policy, all stages in the policy and planning processes from formulation to implementation, and the interactions between governments and markets, the strategies of nongovernmental organizations and business in relation to the environment, and land-use decision-making.

Environmental Carcinogenesis & Ecotoxicology Reviews is a multidisciplinary journal for the rapid publication of integrative, critical reviews on timely and important subjects in various areas of environmental carcinogenesis. Among the subjects covered are risk assessment of chemical/physical agents and biological factors of environmental significance, basic research and methodology, theoretical modelling, host susceptibility and mechanistic studies, and protection of environment and ecosystems.

www.tandfonline.com/lesc

Journal of Integrative Environmental Sciences aims to provide a stimulating, informative and critical forum for intellectual debate on significant environmental issues. It brings together perspectives from a wide range of disciplines and methodologies in both the social and natural sciences in the effort to develop integrative knowledge about the processes responsible for environmental change.

www.tandfonline.com/nens

The study of the nature of land use and land cover, their changes over space and time, and the processes that produce these patterns and changes can be termed ‘land use science’. Land use science is necessarily an interdisciplinary science since land uses are influenced by, and influence, environmental, ecological, social and economic systems through a complex series of natural and socio-economic processes, including management and decision making.
