

Call for Papers

Men and Masculinities

The Journal of Gender Studies will be publishing a special issue of 'Men and Masculinities' in September 2009 with guest editors Victoria Robinson and Angela Meah.

Work on masculinities has emerged in diverse disciplines in different countries, and we are looking for a broad spectrum of articles which reflect this diversity of positions and topics. Themes may include, amongst others:

Historical masculinities
Transitional masculinities
Everyday and material masculinities
Global masculinities
Researching men and masculinities
Cross cultural masculinities
Performing masculinities
Masculinities and gender relations
Feminism and masculinities
Men and masculinities in the academy
Alternative masculinities

We would like to encourage contributions from academics, activists and practitioners. Contributions may be in the form of academic articles, poetry or short fiction, short essays and reports, for example. Please visit the website: www.informaworld.com/cjgs and click on 'Instructions for authors' for guidelines on length, formatting, submission procedure, etc.

Submissions should be sent to The Editors, University of Lincoln, Derek Crothall Building, George Street, Hull, HU1 3BW, UK.

Email: jgs@lincoln.ac.uk

The closing date for submissions will be 1 December 2008.