Call for Peer Reviewers

Media History is an interdisciplinary journal which addresses media and society from the fifteenth century to the present, with a perspective which is both historical and international.

The Editors are currently inviting applications for new peer reviewers from across the world, to reflect the wide scope of the study of Media History today. Applications are particularly welcomed from the regions of Africa, the Americas, China, and the Middle East.

To register interest, please contact Tom O’Malley at tpo@aber.ac.uk
