Call for Papers

EDITORS: Aaron Karp and Regina Karp both at Old Dominion University, USA

Volume 30, 2009, 3 issues per year, Print ISSN: 1352-3260, Online ISSN: 1743-8764

One of the oldest peer reviewed journals in international conflict and security, Contemporary Security Policy promotes theoretically-based research on policy problems of armed violence, peace building and conflict resolution. Since it first appeared in 1980, CSP has established its unique place as a meeting ground for research at the nexus of theory and policy.

Spanning the gap between academic and policy approaches, CSP offers policy analysts a place to pursue fundamental issues, and academic writers a venue for addressing policy.

The journal emphasizes debate on:

- War and armed conflict
- Strategic culture
- Defence policy
- Weapons procurement
- Conflict resolution
- Arms control and disarmament

Contemporary Security Policy, is committed to a broad range of intellectual perspectives. Articles promote new analytical approaches, iconoclastic interpretations and previously overlooked perspectives. Its pages encourage novel contributions and outlooks, not particular methods or outlooks. Authors are encouraged to examine established issues in innovative ways and to apply traditional methods to new problems.

Submission Guidelines

Electronic manuscript submissions are preferred, on disk or as e-mail attachment. There is no standard length for articles but 8,000 words (including notes and references) is a useful target. The article should begin with an indented and italicized abstract of around 150 words, which should describe the main argument, innovative contributions and principal conclusions of the article.

Manuscripts, proposals for articles and editorial correspondence should be sent to Professor Regina Karp or Professor Aaron Karp, Editors, Contemporary Security Policy, Graduate Programs in International Studies, Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Virginia 23508, USA. Electronic submissions are welcome at rkarp@odu.edu or akarp@odu.edu
