

European Journal of Psychotherapy & Counselling

INVITATION TO SUBMIT AN ARTICLE

The European Journal of Psychotherapy & Counselling, a leading innovative source of academic writing in the field of the psychological therapies, is seeking new article submissions.

The journal would welcome articles showcasing the International/ European relevance of developments in psychotherapy and counselling to European/ International practice including:

- Contributions from and debates between different theoretical approaches to psychotherapy and counselling (including psychoanalysis and counselling psychology), and their respective traditions of practice and research
- The implications of individual and group psychotherapy and counselling in public, private and voluntary settings
- Training and educational issues
- The interaction between the psychological and the physical and the status of these categories.

How to Submit:

The journal produces 4 issues a year and regularly publishes papers by leading figures in the field, but also wishes to encourage writers of high quality who are relatively early in their careers.

For further information on the Journal and a fully searchable sample copy, please visit the website

To submit a paper to this journal, please visit the EJPC ScholarOne Manuscripts™ Central site