Guest editors:

Malin Zillinger, Mid Sweden University

Guiding is an important part of tourism, but also in spatial planning and place marketing. Underlying aims of the practice of guiding and representation include the production of information as well as the development and management of knowledge. For the current special issue, we invite researchers to contribute with manuscripts on guided tours that are of interest in a Nordic perspective. The special issue opens for papers that are related to leading and organising, and to giving alternative voices to the production and experience of space and place.

Among the topics of interest are:

The production of images and representations; Technologies supporting guided tours; The language of guiding; Guided tours as alternative voices in city- and rural research; Guiding and disabilities; Experiences produced in guided tours; Guiding and sustainability; Economic aspects of guiding and representation.

Submissions:

Full papers using SJHT guidelines for authors should be submitted to the guest editors no later than October 1st 2009.

Guidelines are found on the Journal website: www.tandf.no/sjht
