

British Curriculum Foundation

The British Curriculum Foundation exists to promote all aspects of curricular development and enquiry. It has charitable status and, in addition to sponsoring The Curriculum Journal, it annually gives small grants (nominally up to £1,000) that the trustees feel fall within the remit of the Foundation's aims.

Membership of the Foundation for you or your school includes a subscription to The Curriculum Journal, which publishes research into curriculum structure, organization and development in primary and secondary schools and further education. The Curriculum Journal is written for teachers and head teachers, advisors, managers and academics. It features articles on the whole curriculum, cross-curricular issues, assessment requirements and new approaches to teaching and learning, and focuses on both the UK and on international curriculum issues.

The current volume includes special editions on school based teacher development and teacher subject knowledge.

Membership Rates:

Schools and other institutions

(with one copy of The Curriculum Journal): £48

Schools and other institutions

(with two copies of The Curriculum Journal): £60

Individuals

(with one copy of The Curriculum Journal): £29

For more information on joining the British Curriculum Foundation please contact: Professor Bob Moon, The Open University, Faculty of Education and Language Studies, Centre for Research and Development in Teacher Education, Walton Hall, Milton Keynes, MK7 6AA

the Curriculum
Journal