

Journal of Comparative Social Welfare

2012 Editorship

Applications are invited for the post of Editor(s) of Journal of Comparative Social Welfare

With our gracious thanks to Brij Mohan as outgoing Editor of the journal, we are looking to recruit a new Editor, or Co-Editors, starting in January 2012. We are inviting applications, individual or joint, for this position.

Journal of Comparative Social Welfare is a refereed international forum designed to promote interdisciplinary inquiry and research. It encompasses all scientific-academic fields dealing with social welfare including social work, social policy, social development and planning. It aims to:

- Seek interdisciplinary linkages that facilitate communications between social structures, organizations and academic disciplines
- Promote comparative analysis as a valued method of social research
- Synthesize theory and practice integrating empirical and qualitative designs
- Encourage intellectuals to think critically and act globally
- Explore strategic policy and research directions that help mitigate cross-cultural issues
- Strengthen international dialogue and disseminate information helpful to alleviate world social problems (AIDS, poverty, inequality, violence, oppression, disasters and other forms of dehumanization)
- Serve as a catalyst to promote international understanding, peace, human rights and social justice

For more information about the journal, please visit our web site at:

The main tasks of the Editor(s) are to receive and process contributions for the journal through peer review, and make the final decision on publication via the online submission system ScholarOne Manuscripts™. The incoming Editor(s) will be involved with the implementation of the ScholarOne system, and will receive full training from our dedicated in-house team. The Editor(s) will also serve as ambassadors for the journal and be responsible for liaison with the Editorial Board and Editorial Advisory Panel and other aspects of journal maintenance. Full details can be provided on request.

Your application should include details of your relevant experience and your vision for the journal under your Editorship. Joint applications should include relevant details from both applicants with a joint letter of intent.

Some financial support is available to the Editor(s) for the running of the Editorial office.
