

New Partnership between the South African Institute of International Affairs (SAIIA) and Routledge Journals

In 2008, Routledge has become the publisher of the South African Journal of International Affairs (SAJIA). Published since 1993, the SAJIA is a leading South African journal providing a vibrant interdisciplinary forum for debate on all foreign policy issues affecting Africa in general or South Africa in particular. The SAJIA aims to publish original, analytical and timely research with a view to offering constructive policy solutions.

The new partnership with Routledge will, by increasing the promotional and marketing activity, allow the SAJIA to increase its international readership and to achieve a wider distribution in Africa and across the globe. The SAJIA targets academics, policy-makers, non-governmental organisations, corporates, journalists and other individuals with an interest in international relations.

Adding to the Routledge agreement with the University of South Africa (UNISA) Press concluded in 2006, this new partnership expands and strengthens the Routledge commitment to publishing South African based journals.

Elizabeth Sidiropoulos, National Director of SAIIA and Editor-in-Chief, commented: “The South African Institute of International Affairs is thrilled to be partnering with Routledge in the publication of the South African Journal of International Affairs. We are confident this partnership will continue to ensure the publication of quality research in the journal, especially from among African scholars, and offer a host of benefits to both our readers and committed contributors.”

Dr. David Green, Global Publishing Director of Routledge Journals, said: “It is a privilege for Routledge Journals to be awarded the publishing contract for such a prestigious Institute. This partnership further reinforces Routledge’s position as a key international publisher of South African research and demonstrates our commitment to publishing in this area. The partnership will enable the Institute to extend the global reach of its flagship publication.”

About the South African Institute of International Affairs

The SAIIA is an independent, non-governmental organisation which aims to promote a wider and more informed understanding of international issues among South Africans. It seeks also to educate, inform and facilitate contact among people concerned with South Africa’s place in the world, and to contribute to the public debate on foreign policy. Since 1994 SAIIA has supported democratic South Africa in dealing with its rapidly expanding international engagements by promoting public debate and independent policy analysis on the most pressing issues of the day. In 2009, SAIIA will celebrate the 75th anniversary of its founding.

About Routledge Journals

Routledge Journals is part of Taylor & Francis, an Informa business, and is one of the world’s leading publishers of academic journals. Taylor & Francis is dedicated to the dissemination of scholarly information, drawing on expertise developed since first publishing learned journals in 1798. Taylor & Francis now publishes 1,250 scholarly journals, of which 340 are produced in association with learned societies and scholarly institutions. The Company operates from a network of 19 global offices, including Philadelphia, Oxford, Melbourne, Stockholm, Beijing, New Delhi and Singapore.

For further information, please contact:

Taylor & Francis Journals: Tom Pater at Tom.Pater@tandf.co.uk

South African Journal of International Affairs: Anne Gordon, Editor, sajia.editor@saiia.org.za

Recent and forthcoming special issues and articles

Special issue on “India in Africa”, forthcoming (Vol. 14, Issue 2, 2007)

Special issue on “China in Africa” (Vol. 13, Issue 2, 2006)

Special issue on “The Politics of Africa’s Resources” (Vol. 13, Issue 1, 2006)

Articles on:

“Assessing the African Peer Review Mechanism” by Ross Herbert and Steven Gruzd

“South Africa in Africa: Messiah or Mercantilist” by Adekeye Adebajo

“Foreign Investment in Africa: Challenges and Benefits” by Hani Besada

“Strategies for Rebuilding Africa’s Broken States” by Richard Gueli and Sybert Liebenberg

“South Africa’s Foreign Policy: Carving a Global Niche” by Chris Landsberg and David Monyae

Submission details

The South African Journal of International Affairs is seeking unsolicited article submissions on all international relations topics pertinent to the continent, especially those written by African authors. Articles must be original in content. They should analyse significant policy issues in African international affairs, with a view to offering constructive solutions. Articles may, inter alia, deal with global / continental governance, multilateralism and political/economic integration, strengthening of democracy and political party systems in Africa, protection of human rights, international trade and investment, governance of natural resources, environmental protection, security and conflict, migration and refugees, religion and ethnicity, the roles of state and non-state actors in international affairs, and the influence of emerging powers on Africa and the world.

Articles should be about 5,000 to 8,000 words in length and must be written in a style that is accessible to both professionals and laypersons. Style notes for contributors can be found on the SAIIA website, www.saiia.org.za.

All submissions will be subject to blind peer review by at least two reviewers.

Submitted articles must not be simultaneously under consideration for publication elsewhere.

Articles should be submitted by e-mail, as attachments in MS-Word format to the Editor, Anne Gordon, at sajia.editor@saiia.org.za.

If necessary, articles may be submitted by post to the Editor, SAJIA, at the South African Institute of International Affairs, P.O. Box 31596, Braamfontein 2017, South Africa. Please provide THREE hard copies and a disc in MS-Word format.