

Manuscript Central™ site now live!

We are pleased to announce that papers for Ergonomics can now be submitted online with Manuscript Central, the publishing industry's number one online tool for managing manuscripts through the scholarly journal review process.

This service offers a quick, easy and efficient way to submit articles online. To explore the Manuscript Central site, please visit <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/terg>. On entering the site new users should first create an account, including log-in name and password, via the button at the top of the Welcome page.

Author benefits include:

- Simple electronic submission of manuscripts, revisions and amendments
- Acceptance of multiple file formats
- No postal delays or costs
- Email communication with Editorial Office
- Online reviewing
- Electronic receipt of referees' status reports
- Facility to track manuscript status online
- Excellent technical support by telephone, email and an online user guide

There have also been some changes to the instructions for authors submitting papers to Ergonomics, including the requirement for a short statement indicating the relevance of the paper's findings to ergonomics research and practice. Please visit the Instructions for Authors page of the Ergonomics website for full details.
