Citizenship Studies

Call for Proposals – Special Issues for 2016

The Editors of the journal Citizenship Studies invite proposals for Special Issues. Two Special Issues will be published in a 2016 issue of the journal.

Proposals relating to any dimension of citizenship studies research are welcome. Normally, Special Issues consist of seven articles as well as an article length Introduction. Guest Editor(s) will work with a member of the Editorial Team to assemble a Special Issue that meets the highest scholarly standards. Responsibilities of Guest Editor(s) include commissioning articles, overseeing the peer review process, and editing and assembling the manuscripts according to the journal’s editorial and style guidelines. Guest Editor(s) must be prepared to deliver the final copy of the Special Issue by 1 February 2016.

Proposals should include the following information:

1. Title of Special Issue
2. Name, affiliation, contact details, and short bio of Guest Editor(s)
3. Brief statement about the issue theme (350 words)
4. A rationale justifying the proposal (350 words)
5. Titles, abstracts, and five keywords of all the papers (250 words each)
6. Names, affiliation, and contact details of each contributor

Proposals are to be submitted by December 15, 2014 and the results of the competition will be announced in early 2015. Proposals and correspondence should be directed to Peter Nyers, Co-Chief Editor: nyersp@mcmaster.ca

For more information about Citizenship Studies, consult the journal's webpage: http://www.tandfonline.com/toc/ccst20/current#.UtQlNPbhGHk

We look forward to hearing from you.

Engin F. Isin
Peter Nyers
Bryan S. Turner