

Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy

CO-EDITORS

Richard Bellamy, University College London, University of London, UK
Preston King, Emory University and Morehouse College, USA

ESSAY PRIZE WINNING ARTICLE

Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy (CRISPP) is pleased to announce that the winner of the 2011 £500 essay prize for the best article published in volume 13 2010 is Simon Birnbaum for his article:

Radical liberalism, Rawls and the welfare state: Justifying the politics of basic income

Vol.13 Iss.4 (2010) pp. 495-516

The judges of the competition praised Birnbaum's piece for "attending to a fundamental question especially significant in an era that constantly erodes monetary return from manual labour. The upshot is an essay on the 'basic wage' that is economical and focused and that, above all, nicely interlards theory with practice". The judges also thought highly of the articles by Dowding, Farnetti and Thomassen in issues 13.1, 13.2/3 and 13.4 respectively.

Click here for FREE access to this article

The CRISPP essay prize is for an outstanding article that deploys philosophical analysis of any school or variety to examine some concrete policy issue, be it political, social or economic, domestic or international. The prize is awarded annually. All articles appearing in a given volume qualify for consideration. The 2012 prize will be awarded for articles appearing in Vol 14 (2011).

www.tandfonline.com/FCRI

- Online sample copies
- Forthcoming articles
- Free articles
- Back issues
- Content alerts
- Submission details
- Pricing and ordering
- Library recommendation form
- Libsite Archive and Collection

FREE ACCESS to the winning article

www.tandfonline.com/FCRI

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group