

Medical Anthropology
Names New Editor

Routledge, an international leader in publishing, is pleased to announce Dr. Lenore Manderson as the new editor for Medical Anthropology Cross-Cultural Studies in Health and Illness.

Dr. Lenore Manderson, Professor of Medical Anthropology at Monash University in Victoria, Australia, will begin her term in January 2010. Manderson replaces Dr. Steve Ferzacca of the University of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, who has held the position the last three years. Under Ferzacca's leadership, the journal has grown and is one of the leading voices in the growing field of medical anthropology.

Dr. Manderson is a medical anthropologist, also known for her contributions in social history, sociology and public health. Her interests include infectious diseases, chronic conditions, and disability; gender, sexuality and identity; and marginality and social inclusion. She has undertaken research in diverse settings in Southeast Asia and Africa, and in Australia with immigrant, Indigenous, and majority communities.

Dr. Manderson is committed to sustaining the high standard and intellectual scope of the journal, consolidating the initiatives of the previous editor and ensuring its engagement with contemporary matters that impact on health and wellbeing. She is especially committed to widening the range of contributions and the readership of the journal.

Entering its 29th volume year in 2010, Medical Anthropology is dedicated to publishing papers that situate the relationship between human behavior, social life, and health within an anthropological context. It provides a forum for inquiring into how knowledge, meaning, livelihood, power, and resource distribution are shaped and how, in turn, these phenomena go on to shape patterns of disease, experiences of health and illness, and the organization of treatments. The journal focuses both on empirical research and also on methodological and theoretical issues. The result is a body of work that both exemplifies and expands upon ways of understanding the biological, cultural, and politico-economic dimensions of illness and healing.

Medical Anthropology has been recently included within the SSCI.

The editorial board of Medical Anthropology welcomes the submission of manuscripts on the following topics:

- the political ecology of disease;
- the interface of the micro- and macro-environments that affect health;
- the globalization of medical meanings and resources;
- the politics of responsibility as it relates to sickness and health care;
- gender and health;
- ethnomedical and ethnopharmaceutical systems;
- medical pluralism and social transformation;
- the moral, political, and interpersonal contexts of bodily suffering; the social meanings of disease categories and ideals of health;
- the cultural and historical conditions shaping medical practices and policies;
- the social organization of clinical interactions;
- the uses and effects of medical technologies;
- and the commercialization and commodification of health and medicine.

For Authors' Guidelines and submissions information, use the contact information below or visit the journal's website at: www.tandf.co.uk/journals/GMEA.

Medical Anthropology, Volume 29, 2010, 4 issues, is available for an institutional print and online subscription rate of US$894/£674/€712, an institutional online-only subscription rate of US$850/£640/€677, and an individual print subscription rate of US$185/£112/€147.

For a sample copy, contact:

Taylor & Francis
Customer Service Department
325 Chestnut St., Ste. 800
Philadelphia, PA 19106
Phone: 1-800-354-1420, press "4"
Email: customerservice@taylorandfrancis.com

For submission information, contact

Dr. Lenore Manderson
Monash University
Victoria 3800 Australia
Phone: + 613 9903 4047
Fax: + 613 9903 4508
Email: lenore.manderson@med.monash.edu.au

ISSN Print 0145-9740
Volume 29, 2010, 4 issues per year

RECENT CONTENTS

Biocommunicability and the Biopolitics of Pandemic Threats, Charles L. Briggs and Mark Nichter

Influenza, Anthropology, and Global Uncertainties, Laëtitia Atlani-Duault and Carl Kendall

Pathogens Gone Wild? Medical Anthropology and the “Swine Flu” Pandemic, Merrill Singer

Working the Waiting Room: Managing Fear, Hope, and Rage at the Clinic Gate, Cynthia Miki Strathmann and M. Cameron Hay

Untouchable Healing: A Dalit Ayurvedic Doctor from Nepal Suffers His Country's Ills, Mary M. Cameron

A Tale of Two “Cultures”: HIV Risk Narratives in South Africa, Eirik Saethre and Jonathan Stadler

Hyperdiagnostics: Postcolonial Utopics of Race-Based Biomedicine, Ian Whitmarsh

SPECIAL ISSUE: GLOBALIZING CHINESE MEDICINE

A Doctor of the Highest Caliber Treats an Illness Before It Happens, Mei Zhan

Practitioner Decisions to Engage in Chinese Medicine: Cultural Messages Under the Skin, Linda L. Barnes

Chinese Propriety Medicines: An “Alternative Modernity?” The Case of the Anti-Malarial Substance Artemisinin in East Africa, Elisabeth Hsu

*****

Anthropology Arena

The Routledge Anthropology Arena provides information about our publishing program, as well as providing a gateway to education online journals, books and eBooks. In addition, there are useful resources for researches, teachers and students.

Please visit www.informaworld.com/anthropology for more information.