

Call for Editor

Journal of Family Communication

Journal of Family Communication* (Taylor & Francis) is accepting nominations for editor. The incoming editor would begin to accept manuscripts early 2011. The following materials are to be sent in electronic form to Caryn Medved at caryn.medved@baruch.cuny.edu by August 1, 2010: current curriculum vitae, letter of application outlining the candidate's editorial vision, and a letter of support from their institution. Selection of incoming editor will be made in consultation with Taylor & Francis and a committee of five current JFC editorial board members.

Editorial Scope: Journal of Family Communication (JFC) will publish articles on all aspects of communication within and about families. This includes communication in family systems and relationships, in relation to broader discourses of community and institutions, families managing communication vis a vis societal systems such as mass media, education, health care, and law & policy. In addition to empirical reports, theoretical essays, and review essays, the journal will include articles pertaining to applied family communication, family communication pedagogy, and reviews of other scholarly and teaching resources (such as websites and instructional video/audio tapes, blogs, and fiction/non-fiction media). The journal welcomes superior scholarship from diverse theoretical and methodological perspectives from communication scholars and interdisciplinary researchers focused on issues of communication, language and social interaction. Added information can be found at: <http://www.tandf.co.uk/journals/HJFC>.