CYBERCRIME & CYBERCRIMINOLOGY

FREE ARTICLE ACCESS

Criminal Justice Studies is pleased to offer free access to two articles featured in the special issue on Cybercrime and Cybercriminology, edited by George E. Higgins, University of Louisville, USA.

To view the articles click on the links below:

An exploration into the factors associated with specialization among college student computer criminals - David N. Khey, Wesley G. Jennings, Lonan Lanza-Kaduce & Charles E. Frazier

The role of gender in predicting the willingness to engage in digital piracy among college studies - Robert G. Morris, Matthew C. Johnson & George E. Higgins

The issue focuses on society's reliance on computers and the Internet's continued rise. With this growth, the computer and the Internet have created an arena for criminal activity.

Criminal Justice Studies, a quarterly refereed journal, publishes articles that deal with substantive criminal justice and criminological issues. The journal welcomes all articles that are relevant to the issue of criminal justice, as well as those that may be outside the field but have relevancy to the topic of criminal justice. Articles that cover public administration, issues of public policy, as well as public affairs issues are welcome. The journal also publishes relevant literature reviews, research notes and summary reports of innovative research projects in criminal justice.
