

New writers wanted!

Psychodynamic Practice is always looking for new writers. Are you one of them?

Have you ever thought of writing a paper for the Journal and then had cold feet? Do you have an idea that you'd like to talk through before putting pen to paper? Would you like feedback on an idea before launching into writing?

We very much want to encourage new writers to follow through on their ideas and turn them into papers so, if you'd like some help thinking your idea through before formally submitting, get in touch.

Papers can be around 3,000 words for Open Space or 5,000 words for a main article submission.

If you would like to write and want to talk about it, contact me ann.heyno@googlemail.com
