

New Writing

The International Journal for the Practice and Theory of Creative Writing

Editor: Graeme Harper, Bangor University, UK

The first independent journal of its kind in the world, New Writing publishes both critical and creative work – offering a forum for debate, as well as an avenue for the publication of the best stories, poems, works of creative non-fiction or works for the stage or for the screen, in all its contemporary varieties.

The inaugural New Writing Annual Lecture, titled “Who Needs Children’s Poetry?” is taking place at the 2011 Great Writing Conference, presented by Professor Philip Gross. Watch it being webstreamed live at www.ustream.tv.

Why not take a look at our selection of FREE articles to accompany the conference?

Visit www.tandf.co.uk/rmnw to view the articles online

Critical Reflection on Creative Collaborations:
Imagining the Image and Wording the Work
Shauna Busto Gilligan and Karen Lee Street

Rhetoric’s Stepchildren: Ancient Rhetoric and Modern Creative Writing
Robert L. Lively

Rethinking the Unconscious in Creative Writing
Pedagogy
Abi Curtis

Windfall
Nessa O’Mahony

Waiting for Nabokov
Maxim D. Shrayer

Visit the journal homepage to:

- Register for table of contents alerts
- Order back issues
- Submit your research
- Find out about special and themed issues
- Recommend the journals to your library
- Read a free online sample copy

Use your smartphone to go straight to the New Writing homepage. Simply use your QR code app to scan the QR code to the left.