

Winner of the Warren Samuels Prize Announced

The recipients of the 2008 Warren Samuels Prize are Steven Pressman and Robert H. Scott, III, both of Monmouth University, USA, for their paper entitled The Misplaced Interest in Government Measures of Poverty and Inequality.

They were awarded with a plaque and a US$500 stipend during the Association for Social Economics (ASE) presidential breakfast at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) conference, held in January 2008 in New Orleans, USA. The winning paper may, subject to peer review, also be published in the subsequent September issue of the ASE's journal - the Review of Social Economy, published by Routledge.

The Warren Samuels Prize is awarded by the ASE, one of the founding member organizations of the ASSA, together with the Review of Social Economy, to a paper, presented at the January ASSA meetings, that best exemplifies scholarly work that:

- Is of high quality,
- Is important to the project of social economics,
- Has broad appeal across disciplines.

For further information about the prize please contact Wilfred Dolfsma, the Corresponding Editor of the Review of Social Economy, at W.Dolfsma@econ.uu.nl

Wilfred Dolfsma, the Corresponding Editor of the Review of Social Economy, presenting Steven Pressman and Robert H. Scott, III, with their prize. Photo taken by Antoon Spithoven.